An instance has come to my notice in which a Superintendent of Police purchased petrol in bulk for Government Vehicles, and finding no proper place for its storage in Police Lines, kept it with the dealer. This was most irregular.

The supply of petrol has been agreed to by the Accountant General vide his No. T.M./I(2)346 dated the 20th April, 1954 (copy enclosed) to be treated as a Contingent charge on as required basis. Under the circumstances purchase of petrol for storage over and above the normal requirements should not be made, and in no case the petrol should be left with the dealers after it has been paid for.
